

LONDON BOROUGH OF LEWISHAM
Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990
Town and Country Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012
Public participation on the adoption of a new conservation area and Article 4 Direction

Local Planning Authorities are required from time to time to identify areas of special architectural or historic interest in their area, the character or appearance of which it is desirable to preserve or enhance. Lewisham Council is proposing to merge St Paul's Conservation Area and Deptford High Street Conservation Area into one new conservation area called Deptford High Street and St Paul's Church Conservation Area. It is also proposing to extend the designation to include some new areas around the edges and exclude some others. We are seeking views of residents, stakeholders, and any interested members of the public on these proposals. The designation would give protection to this distinctive neighbourhood in recognition of its special architectural and historic character.

Tell us what you think.

Read the consultation documents and then complete a short questionnaire.
